MILWAUKEE COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Soaring grandeur

With gilded carvings, grand columns, an intricate chandelier and a wide-tiled floor, the stunning interior of the Milwaukee County Historical Society renovated venue is the ideal place to your upscale event. Originally constructed in 1913, this venue retains its old-world charm while still having all of the benefits of modern technology. Sure to impress your guests, this space will captivate them as they enjoy Zilli's excellent cuisine.

A renovated bank, the Milwaukee County Historical Society has ornate décor, breathtaking marble columns and panels. As it was originally a functional bank, there is a large vault door at one end of the space, a unique feature to captivate guests and a fun, interesting 'prop' for pictures. Its memorable and distinctive interior was used in the 2009 film Public Enemies, a testament to the glamour of this venue.
